

KMCprepared | For study | For work | For life

At Kingston Maurward College we recognise that our adult learners and those studying our higher education level courses typically have different needs, aims and reasons for studying with us compared to the mainstream majority of our learners who transition directly from secondary education. Therefore, in many cases adult and HE learners require an alternative offer in terms of careers education, information, advice and guidance. The Careers Team at Kingston Maurward College do their utmost to understand the motivations of both adult and HE learners studying at the college and adopt a bespoke approach when providing support. Our adult and HE students usually have more complex reasons and motivations for choosing to studying a course with us, consequently the career advice and guidance provision offered is tailored to meet individual needs and requirements.
